INTRODUCTION

Buffalo Lance Ranch, Parcel 25 is a gem! It borders National Forest on the south side and undeveloped ranch land, (under Conservation Easement) on the east side. It already has a 358' well & pump, a 30-amp connection outlet for an RV, a septic permit for a 2-BR dwelling, a 250-gallon propane tank, and a "Watchdog" by Generac generator! It is all set up for your 3-season RV enjoyment, or to use while you build your dream cabin on this premier, view lot! Power is available from either the NE corner of Parcel 23 or near the SE corner of Parcel 24 (closest location near the existing well and septic). There are several ideal building sites and numerous possibilities for this property. The covenants have expired, and there is no county zoning, so no restrictions exist. It borders an outstanding hunting area (owner claims about 2,500 head of elk come over Horn Mtn and the property every year, in the fall). In the spring, cow elk calve their young in the Aspen tree hollow, just to the east of Parcel 25. And a cow moose and her young visit every year. The property is centrally located...35 minutes from the West Gate of Yellowstone National Park and approx. 2 hours from the beginning of The Grand Tetons National Park. It is only a few miles from the world-famous Blue Ribbon Trout Waters of the Madison River, plus Hebgen, Earthquake, Cliff, Wade, Elk and Hidden Lakes are all nearby, as well as Henry's Lake in Idaho. The property is just 3 miles North of the Idaho-Montana border, in an end-of-the-road, peaceful, family-friendly environment with lots of scenic activities & many places to explore! The Seller is offering Parcels 23, 24 and 25 individually, in any combination - or all together as a package, for $1,573,000. MLS# 399855

INVESTING IN MONTANA RANCH LAND

Interest in Montana ranch land as an investment has been strong over the last several years. Throughout Montana, but particularly in Southwest Montana we have seen increased demand for ranches as a safe investment. Making the decision to pursue investing in ranch land can be incredibly rewarding (both personally and financially) but there are a lot of factors that go into investing and owning ranch land. "Ranch" is a general term that can describe a wide range of property from large income producing cattle ranches, smaller recreational properties, fly fishing properties, hunting ranches, or horse properties with just a few acres. All of these definitions of ranch property are in demand in Montana, and are appreciating in value over the long term. However, income producing ranch land is the most stable, and is in the highest demand by investors.

Before buying property in Montana it is important to understand Montana Water Rights. All water in Montana is owned by the State. A Montana Water Right allows you to legally use water in a prescribed manner, but not to own the water itself. Montana's water law is based in the Doctrine of Prior Appropriation - First in Time, First in Right. Water rights are ranked according to the date on which the water was first put to beneficial use. Priority dates dictate the volume and distribution of water from wells, rivers, and streams. Landowners must put the water to beneficial use without waste to retain their right to use Montana's water. Without diversion and beneficial use, there is no water right.

A conservation easement is a legal agreement between a landowner and a land trust that limits the uses of the land in order to protect its conservation values. The landowner retains title to the property. The creation of the conservation easement can qualify as a one-time donation that has tax benefits. The conservation easement runs with the title, meaning that if the property is purchased by a new owner, the conservation easement remains. Land ownership carries with it a bundle of rights—the right to occupy, lease, sell, develop, construct buildings, farm, restrict access or harvest timber, among others. A landowner can give up one or more of those rights for a purpose such as conservation while retaining ownership of the remainder of the rights. In ceding a right, the landowner “eases” it to another entity, such as a land trust. For example, a landowner may give up the right to build additional structures while retaining the right to grow crops.

Landowners looking to sell their property can use conservation easements to protect what future owners are able to do with the property. This typically reduces the marketable value of the property. If the conservation is setup properly, the landowners are able to take advantage of tax benefits associated with the creation and “donation” of the conservation easement. The potential tax benefits of a donated conservation easement are two-fold. First, income tax benefits may exist at the federal level. There may be benefits at the state level as well. However, state property taxes can not be reduced by a donation of a conservation easement in Montana. Second, the conservation easement works as an estate planning tool to reduce estate tax liability. To qualify for a tax deduction, the donation of a conservation easement must be considered a charitable gift by the IRS (Internal Revenue Service). It is strongly recommended that a qualified tax professional review the conservation easement donation to ensure it meets IRS requirements. A tax deductible, charitable donation can only be made to an IRS qualified tax-exempt organization. The donation of a conservation easement must be complete and irrevocable in perpetuity. In order to claim a tax deduction on the donation of a conservation easement the landowner must obtain a qualified appraisal by a state certified appraiser.
